I'm not sure if it's denial, lack of tangible evidence (I've never seen anyone do that.) or just an inability to grasp the massive change that has taken place.

Women doctors overall work 10-15 fewer hours per week than their male counterparts (I think that attests

This article concerns the intersection of substance abuse and initial and continuing eligibility for welfare programs in the context of policy changes made during the 1990s.