however, there are several factors which need to be considered, including the need to make significant lifestyle changes and the potential side effects.