of the pharmacists surveyed, nearly a third (30) were aware of patients that experienced breakthrough seizures or side effects associated with manufacturer change.

sandoz, a novartis company, thus became the first pharma firm to receive approval of a biosimilar in the u.s.